STOLE A MARCH.

Mrs. Alice Payne of This City Marries and Locates in California.

Here's a real romance!

Mrs. Alice Payne, for several years the efficient Matron of the Almshouse in this city, left home on July 29th, ostensibly for a brief visit to friends nearby; but to a chosen few she had confided her purpose, pledging each to profound secrecy—to help her gracious.

Yesterday morning her daughters received a letter with the surprising announcement that she was married—and as happy as happy could be—and directing that the two youngest children be sent to her and that the elder ones run the Almshouse the best they could.

A balloon from a house across the way had been no more surprising to her family, but they take the matter philosophically and will run the house all right.

The marriage took place at Carter's, Cal., July 27th, and the fortunate husband is Mr. J. C. Gilman, a well-to-do gentleman whom it is said Mrs. Payne met a year or two ago.

THE LEADER joins with the bride's many friends here in hoping that the romance may prove an endless dream.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilman will reside at Carter's, which is in Tuolumne county.

Defenses Cannot Be Made. By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by the use of Balleenger's Ear Cure. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and shuts off the hearing, and when it is inflamed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Our cases out of ten are cured by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (proved by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Balleenger's Ear Cure. Send for circular free.

A BLOCK TREKED.

Terrific Explosion Completely Destroyed Five Business Buildings in Philadelphia.

MANY PERSONS KILLED AND INJURED.

Structures Within a Radius of Two Squares of the Scene Had Windows Shattered.

Mrs. Women and Children Could Be Seen Crawling From the Debris—Planes Added to the Horror.

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—A terrific explosion in a block of six buildings on Locust street, about Tenth, Monday night completely wrecked five of the structures and caused the death of from 20 to 30 persons. Over two score of others were hurt or less seriously injured. Sum of those taken to the hospital will be estimated at 200. At least 35 persons were in the five buildings when the explosion occurred, and the exact number of dead will probably not be known for 24 hours.

What exploded and how it happened is not known at this time, but it is believed to have been a barrel of gasoline in the third or fourth story. With the explosion a No. 1008, the front wall of the buildings were blown outward to the street, while the floors and the walls were blown upward and fell straight to the ground. Almost every building in a radius of two blocks about the scene of the explosion had windows shattered and many were damaged. Every building on the opposite side of Locust street was more or less wrecked, but none of them fell.

A Terrible Cry Went Up. A terrible cry went up from the ruins the moment the explosion occurred. Women, children and many of the men who were present could be seen crawling from the debris, while the agonizing cries of others were heard in the wreckage. From all the surrounding buildings injured people came running and fell into the street unconscious. To add to the horror fire broke out in the debris the moment it settled to the ground, and in less than five minutes the great pile was burning fiercely from end to end. A general alarm was turned in at once, and fire ambulances, and in the meantime the work of rescue was voluntarily begun by those in the neighborhood. The firemen, however, did not reach a person was dragged from the ruins before the fire could reach the victim, several lives being saved by this prompt work.

Dead Bodies in the Ruins. When the firemen reached the scene the flames had reached great headway and were lighting the buildings across the street. The fire, however, was soon under control, and with the exception of a small blaze here and there it was extinguished in a few minutes.

The police and fire officials are positive that a number of bodies are still buried under the ruins. Large forces of firemen and policemen are at work removing the debris from the wreckage, but at this writing have found no bodies. There are many persons missing according to the statements of witnesses who are familiar with the movements of those occupying the buildings. It is supposed that a number of bodies will be found in the ruins of the restaurant of colored patronage. Quite a number were seen in the place before the explosion. It will require several hours' work to remove the piles of roofing, flooring and wall, which fell into the cellars of three-wheeled buildings.

Emperor Frederick, Daughter of Queen Victoria and Mother of Emperor William, Dead.

Cronberg, Aug. 6.—The Dowager Empress Frederick died at 6:15 Monday evening. She was at the bedside of his mother when she passed away. He arrived at Homburg Monday morning, jumped in a carriage and dashed off to Cronberg at tremendous speed, fearing that the queen mother might not live until his arrival. The Crown Prince William, who had spent the night at Homburg, also hurried to the side of the dying empress. She was unconscious when the emperor and crown prince arrived at the castle, and the doctors gave her no hope of her ever recognizing them.

Early Monday morning physicians in attendance issued a bulletin saying the empress was in a very poor strength and her action was very poor. The end was expected at almost any moment throughout the day.

Sudden Change For the Worse. Though the empress has been ill for some time, there was a sudden change for the worse Sunday, and her relatives were informed that she could not live more than a few hours. King Edward of England ordered a special train to carry him to the bedside of his mother-in-law, but, finding he could not reach there in time to see her alive, countermanded the order Monday.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The papers assert that the dowager empress long adopted her husband's motto, "Learn to suffer without complaining." She frequently said that the public should be excluded from the ground of Friedrichsruhe, saying, "The world shall not learn that I am suffering and will be pitted in my misfortune."

Kansas City, Aug. 6.—Exposition building, erected during the boom of 1893, at a cost of over $200,000, was destroyed by fire in less than two hours' time Monday afternoon. The fire started shortly after 1 o'clock. A boy, who was a crowd gatherer, watched a circus cross the street, set fire, in the spirit of mischief, to some loose rubbish on the floor. In a moment the flames leaped high into the air, spreading almost instantly throughout the whole building, which occupied half a block. Soon the whole structure was a roaring furnace. Hundreds of people had gathered for the circus performance, and for a time a mild panic prevailed. The circus horses were called out, however, and quickly restored order, and everybody was moved to a place of safety. No one was injured.
